A high performance expedition kayak

Seaward's design team has pulled out all the stops to blend just the right amount of length and rocker in a semi "V" hull design to yield a truly high performance touring kayak. The Quest takes rough sea conditions in its stride and its long waterline assures smooth acceleration and excellent tracking. All these performance features including recessed deck fittings, raised rear hatch, an underdeck bag and a compass make the Quest ideal to paddle or trip in.

"After more than 450 nautical miles loaded to the hilt, my Quest is everything I could expect it to be. It has been dropped, fallen on and drug up on many rocks without any problems. Thanks to all of you for a great boat!"
